

The Dean and Chapter of Birmingham Cathedral

WARMLY INVITE YOU

to attend the launch of the book:

On Thursday 28 January 2016, 6pm-8pm at Birmingham Cathedral

This year Birmingham Cathedral celebrates its Tercentenary. Dr Terry Slater's book marks 300 years of 'the church that became a cathedral in the town that became a city'. No history of the architectural or social development of the cathedral church has previously been published. This despite the architectural significance of the Baroque building and its architect, Thomas Archer. This new book is therefore a milestone in our understanding of the role of this important institution in the development of England's second city.

Entrance to the book launch (with refreshments and a glass of wine) and an accompanying illustrated lecture: "Ten Stories from 300 years of St Philips' History" by Dr Slater is FREE. However, for catering purposes, we ask that you please:

RSVP to: jane.mcardle@birminghamcathedral.com, to confirm your attendance.

Copies of the hardback 330-page book, with more than 150 illustrations, many in colour, are available to pre-order from Birmingham Cathedral for £25 plus £3 p&p from Jane McArdle, or will be available to collect at the launch.
